German Militarists Alone Stand Before World Peace

Washington, Feb. 11.—President Wilson, addressing Congress in joint session at 12:30 o'clock today, replied to recent speeches by German Chancellor von Hertling and the Austrian Foreign Minister Count Czernin.

Chancellor von Hertling's statement, the president said, was very vague and confusing, and led to practically no conclusion. It was very different in tone from Count Czernin's, which the president said had been more favorable to peace.

The president reiterated that the United States had no desire to interfere in European affairs and would disdain to take advantage of any internal weakness or disorder to impose her own will upon people.

All the way through, the president drew a parallel between the pronouncements of Chancellor von Hertling and Count Czernin, and his hearers drew the conclusion that the president decidedly favored the German position.

"Czernin seems to see the fundamental elements of peace with clear eyes, and does not see them," said the president. "Count Czernin probably would have gone much farther had he been embarrased by Austria's alliances, and of her dependence on Germany."

Again, the president reiterated that the United States was in the war and would put forth its strength "in this war of emancipation."

The test of whether it is possible for the belligerents to go on comparing views, the president said, was simple and obvious, and the principle to be applied was, "If you can't get on, you can't get on."

Each part of the final settlement must be based upon essential justice to bring a permanent peace.

Peoples and provinces are not to be battered about like chattle to establish a balance of power. Territorial settlements must be for the benefit of people concerned and not merely adjusting rival states claims.

Well defined national aspirations must be accorded all possible satisfaction. "A general peace upon such foundations can be discussed," said the president. "Until peace can be secured we have no choice but to go on."

These general principles, the president said, have been accepted by everyone except the German Militarists.

The president was interrupted by applause at every reference to the United States standing fast against a patched-up peace. Probably the greatest applause broke out when the president said that the militarists of Germany were the only element now preventing a world peace.

When the president said that the militarists of Germany were the only element now preventing a world peace, the applause was so loud that the president had to raise his voice to be heard.

Following the custom inaugurated with other addresses of the kind, President Wilson's words today telegraphed by the government to all the principal capitals of the world. In this way it was his answer to Hertling and Czernin to the care of the people of Germany, Austria and Russia.

Count Czernin's reply, which is the only one of the kind, is a direct challenge to the president's statement.

Make For Peace

"I call upon the city council to take action to end the violence and that is the action taken by the city council in the appointment of Chief Barnes to the position of chief of the fire department and to fill it by making an appointment which is a direct violation of the city charter," said R. H. Barnes. The speaker then alluded to the superintending fire department and the city council.

"I want to be a trial. I want to be a trial," Barnes said that up to the present time they had had appointments on the principle of promotion alluded to by the speaker then alluded to the superintendent of the fire department and the city council.

presented in such light. Mayor Evans was not able to attend the meeting, but he did send a letter in which he stated that this is absolutely correct. Mayor Evans was unable to attend the meeting because of illness and under such circumstances it is not surprising that he would not have been present with any idea of addressing the gathering.

On the afternoon of July 10, 1968, when the meeting was first announced to speak, was also presented a letter from Mayor Evans, who had developed during the week-end.

Mayor Evans' letter to Mayor Kinney advised that Mayor Martin had been contacted by the Mayor's Office and that Mayor Evans was not able to attend the meeting.

The matter is entirely up to the Mayor's Office.

Finley Presides

✓ Finley, president of the Trade Association, presided over the proceedings by committing those who had taken leave, and said that they would be the question between the free-trade and the protectionists.

Suggestions for Candidates

First—Enter the competition by sending in a nomination blank properly filled out. The nomination blank is good for 5,000 votes, on duty one Nomination Coupon will be accepted for any one candidate.

Then enlist the aid of your friends and neighbors. Use your telephone. Let them all know that you are a candidate before they promise their help to some other candidate.

Be ambitious and determined to win from the start. If you have friends you cannot see at once, write them.

Votes will be given on new subscriptions and on renewals of standing subscriptions also on payment of arrears.

Call or send to The Bulletin Contest Office, 9975 Jasper Ave., Edmonton, for a receipt book. The Contest Manager will be glad to have you call, so he can explain anything you do not understand. Telephone 1245 or write him if you cannot call, and full instructions and supplies will be sent you.

Secure every daily vote coupon possible, but principally work for votes secured on subscriptions. They count up faster.

You may secure votes and subscriptions anywhere.

Newsdealers and Agents

Newsdealers and agents may take subscriptions to The Edmonton Bulletin and give the votes to some one candidate. In remitting money to the contest department be sure and give the candidate full value in votes.
